DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means", "comprises" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1 -5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over admitted prior art of record in the instant specification on page 1, in view of Ellison et al. (3,831,836). Admitted prior art of record in the instant disclosure discloses shipping and handling product containers comprising a plurality of vertically spaced corrugated trays for holding the products, hollow tubular outer support posts that support the trays and space them apart, and inner guide posts that key inside the support posts to lock the system together and provide axial compression strength is well known in the art. The prior art does not teach providing a base assembly for holding the outer support means. Ellison '836 discloses a base assembly comprising an outer base box (rectangular container 11) and a center base member (liner 15) that fits within the base box, the center base member having a top edge and means for holding (corner posts retaining tabs 17) a first set of outer support posts in an upright position within the base assembly. See Figure 1 embodiment and column 1, lines 50-53. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to store the shipping and displaying product containers of the admitted prior art of record of the instant invention in a base assembly as taught by Ellison '836 for easier shipping and handling.

With respect to claims 3 and 4, since Applicant has not stated a function reason for making the inwardly collapsed sections on the present invention with any particular shape. Accordingly, the reason must be assumed to be ornamental in nature. Accordingly, it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to modify the shape of the inwardly collapsed section, since such a modification would have involved a mere change in the shape of a component, absent any showing of unexpected results. A change in shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Dailey, 357 F.2d 669, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1966).

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Shown are base assemblies analogous to applicant's instant invention.
